

WEEK THREE –TASK

TASK - SCOPING

This week's scoping task is designed to help you look to the future (however uncertain that might feel right now) and identify what opportunities there might be for you and your practice.

In 3 groups of 4 arrange to discuss a range of possible futures (you might choose immediate or long-term) and discuss and note what opportunities these might unlock for you.

PROMPTS:

- What are some of the scenarios that might impact on my work that I haven't given consideration to yet? Think big – you might want to consider technological, public health, cultural production factors – as well as more specific funding or economic factors.
- What changes might be coming down the track – in terms of society, technology etc – that I might see in terms of opportunities for my practice or my organisation?
- Where do you go to find out what you should be looking for on the horizon – are there new places you need to look and voices you need to listen to?
- Take advice from the futurist Stuart Candy on thinking about a future with as many different possibilities, diversities and depth as the present.

Work up your thinking in 3 groups of 4 and make notes – in Slack or in your journal.
